ANNOUNCEMENT LATER

Senator to Make Statement at Pittsburg Tariff Club Dinner

While it was generally understood in high Republican circles that Senator Boies Penrose would probably announce his candidacy for re-election to the United States senate at the Pittsburg Tariff Club dinner, to be held this week, the Philadelphia Ledger of Saturday makes the positive statement that the senator will be a candidate all right. The Ledger says:

"Boies Penrose will be a candidate to succeed himself as United States senator. All doubt as to his candidacy was finally dissipated yesterday when definite plans were made for the opening of Penrose campaign headquarters on February 2. These headquarters, from which a State-wide publicity campaign will be conducted in the Senator's interests by his friends among the manufacturers and businessmen, will be in the Real Estate Trust Company Building. Representatives of commercial and industrial plants, rather than the Republican State committee, will be the chief sponsors for the Senator's candidacy."

As previously stated, the nomination of United States senator together with the nomination of all state officers by popular vote through the operation of the new state wide primary law, brings the state campaign into direct contact with each and every individual voter. It is generally conceded that Senator Penrose will have no difficulty, to speak of in getting the Republican nomination for senator as the opposition against his re-election will be centered at the general election in November.

Heavyweight Policeman at Monessen Sustains Injury in Fall

James Acton, a policeman of Monessen who is claimed to be the heaviest policeman of the Monongahela valley if not of western Pennsylvania, is suffering from a fractured thigh which he sustained in a fall while going to make an arrest Saturday night at Monessen. A summons came to the police station from Knox avenue that a woman was being beaten. Policeman Acton was sent. The street was slippery and he fell on the curb. Besides having his thigh fractured he suffered serious injuries and bruises to his back and his face was pretty much cut. Policeman Acton weighs 340 pounds.

TELLS A STORY OF ROBBERY

Fayette City Woman Relates Tale of Horrible Experience

THIEVES SLASH HOSE

A story of an early evening robbery where bold burglars attacked her and after ransacking the house, searching everywhere for money, resorted to the extreme of slashing her hose to ascertain if money were hidden there, is told by Mrs. John Brown a well known woman of Fayette City. The robbery is said to have occurred on Saturday night.

On Saturday night sometime after 10 o'clock, Mr. Brown a hard working man, went home. He found his wife lying prostrate on the floor, in a condition bordering on hysteria. She nervously bubbled out a story of an attack of burglars.

She said that someone had knocked. When she opened the door two unknown men sprang in. One of them seized her, she said throwing her to the floor, and telling her roughly to remain there. Frightened she said, she felt she hardly dared move, while they thoroughly searched the premises, extracting money from pockets of her husband's clothes and from pockets of boarder's clothes. Then they returned, evidently dissatisfied with their search. One of them pulled a penknife, according to Mrs. Brown and slashed both her hose from top to bottom to find money. Failing they left. The case was given to the police to investigate.

WILD RUMORS TRAVEL FROM NORMAL SCHOOL

Two Cases of Scarlet Fever in Isolated Section Cause Talk of General Epidemic and Complete Quarantine

Alarm was occasioned at the Southwestern State Normal school at Charleroi this morning by the report of a scarlet fever epidemic. The report came from the fact that two people are now under quarantine in the south dormitory now. Prof. W. S. Hertzog explained that the patients were completely isolated, and that there was no occasion for fear whatever. Two score or more pupils were out of school because of the rumor that a quarantine was to be enforced at the school.

Henry Walker of Somerset was the first student to suffer from a scarlet fever attack. Miss Nellie Cleaver, who was his nurse for a few days, then became afflicted. Young Walker grew worse until it is stated doctors had to take recourse to stimulants to keep him alive. Miss Cleaver did not become so ill.

Prof. Hertzog said classes were being continued as usual. There was some little trouble in organizing them completely for work.

NOT ON SPEAKING ACQUAINTANCE WITH TRUTH IN GREENE SAYS B. & O.

Talk About New Line to be Built Directly Across County "Heap Humbug" is Word From Chief Railroad Offices

THOMPSON PUTS IN PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

That the Greene county, Pennsylvania, boomers and press agents are working overtime with their alluring prospects of railroads which are to be built immediately into the undeveloped coal territory became known when newspaper stories of a proposed extension of the Baltimore & Ohio lines from Smithfield, Fayette county, Pa., to Wheeling, W. Va., via Waynesburg reached the Baltimore & Ohio offices.

An official statement from the offices of the Baltimore & Ohio state that there are "no plans of this kind in contemplation."

Several newspaper stories have emanated from Waynesburg within the last few days in which it was stated that the Baltimore & Ohio intended extending the lines of the Pittsburg, Morgantown & Fairmont division to Wheeling, W. Va., through Greene county. The route of the mythical railroad was from Smithfield to Martin station across the Monongahela river and passing through Waynesburg, Rogersville, Rutan and Graysville in Greene county.

going through the southern part of Washington county and into Wheeling.

The Greene county boomers also connected J. V. Thompson, of Uniontown, and the West Penn Traction company with the new road. It was stated that Mr. Thompson, who has large coal holdings along the proposed route, intended assisting the B. & O. in a material way, and that the West Penn company would join with the B. & O. in the erection of a bridge across the Monongahela river at Martin station. When the Baltimore & Ohio officials heard of these reports they simply threw up their hands.

In a story sent out from Waynesburg it was stated:

"That the road will be constructed appears to be a settled thing, as viewed by many persons in Greene county who claim to have a certain knowledge of the schemes of the persons taking the initiative in the matter. It is prophesied that it will not be more than two or three months until the work of securing rights of way will be commenced and actual work will have been started."

Killed in Coal Mine

Well Known Californian Meets Death by Accident in Vesta Workings

Caught between a mass of falling rock in the Vesta No. 1 mine Saturday, William Lutes, aged 50 years, a lifelong resident of Granville, met almost instant death. Coroner Heffran viewed the body and decided that an inquest would not be necessary.

Lutes was working in a room alone when without warning a portion of the roof caved in. Other workmen attracted by the crash hurried to the room and removed the rock but life was extinct by the time the body was reached.

Lutes was born near Granville and had spent his entire life in that vicinity. He never married.

Proposal to Unite With Western Branch Threshed Out

WOULD MAKE RADICALS

Question of Industrial Unionism, as Understood in West, a Problem

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—Failing a rest or Saturday the delegates in attendance at the international convention of the United Mine Workers spent the day in generally caucusing and discussing the policies and projects that are before the body. The annual resolution to consolidate with the Western Federation of Miners came up late Friday, but was held over until this week for consideration. This matter of consolidating with the Western Federation embodies a policy with which the eastern and western bodies are not at all in harmony. The eastern branch, which is composed practically of coal miners is organized under the jurisdiction of trades unionism, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, while the western branch, which is composed mostly of miners of metals other than coal, is inclined toward industrial unionism.

There are many radicals among the eastern branch who favor industrial unionism, and an affiliation with the Western Federation it is believed will increase the radical element so that it may shortly have a dominating influence in the organization. Thus far the American Federation of the World have not come in close harmony and there are many who believe that a consolidation of the eastern and western branches at this particular time will result in more harm to the cause of organized labor than good.

A resolution favoring laws to restrict all further immigration until all surplus labor in the United States is fully employed was another action of the convention before its adjournment Friday. The convention also voted that all carpenters employed about the mines must sever their connection with the carpenters' union and take out cards in the miners' organization.

With the reassembling of the convention today the delegates will once more get down to business, and some important business will come before the meeting this week.
